Mr President,

Lawyers for Lawyers, The Law Society of England and Wales and Lawyers' Rights Watch Canada welcome Kazakhstan's commitment to strengthen the independence of the judicial system and the role of defence lawyers.ⁱⁱ

We request Council to call on Kazakhstan to speed up the effective implementation of the relevant UPR recommendations,ⁱⁱⁱ taking into account the UN Basic Principles on the Role of Lawyers.^{iv}

As of today, public prosecutors still play a dominant role in legal proceedings. As a result, lawyers are not in an equal position to represent their clients. Lawyers are subjected to intimidation by judges, public prosecutors and members of law enforcement agencies. Lawyers also face 'interim orders' issued by judges which may lead to disciplinary action. Several lawyers have been disbarred, or are facing disbarment, on improper grounds.^v

We regret Kazakhstan's refusal to ensure that human rights defenders, including lawyers, can freely practice their peaceful activities, without fear of administrative or other reprisals. Lawyers in Kazakhstan face threats and physical attacks in relation to their work. They are also subjected to criminal proceedings and even psychiatric confinement.^{vi}

We welcome the release of lawyer Zinaida Mukhortova from mental hospital^{vii}, but we regret Kazakhstan's refusal to accept recommendation 126.32.

We request Council to call on Kazakhstan to accept recommendation 126.46 and to ensure that forced psychiatric detention will meet international standards.

Thank you mr President.
